Increase Our Faith

Faith is like a well; its water deep, refreshing, fed by the stream of living water from God. It started like a trickle of baptismal water, now it is deeper, and we draw on it for meaning, compassion and God's love.

Faith is personal to each of us, like every child is uniquely loved by parents in a way that is just for that child. Faith is like holding God's hand, and we each hold hands our own way, with our own unique touch.

Be grateful for faith, the gift of God. Be patient with its growth. And let's be confident in its growth. Through the darkness of doubts, through the fog of questions, through the storms of let-downs, faith is nourished, and grows.

Like a stone thrown into the well immediately upsets the water at the top, but as it falls it upsets less, until it hardly disturbs the deep water, the place of peace and silence, that place of deep faith, at the bottom of the well. For in the bottom of the well is the home of God, and nobody can destroy that home within us.

In the peace and the silence of its depths is the living water, given forever; the water that no stone can disturb, no sin can destroy.

We are grateful for the water that lasts forever, that springs up inside us for eternal life; Jesus, the life of God, the life of the world.
